A year ago while in Houston Carrie Nation told the owner of the "Carrie Nation" saloon that if he did not change the name of the saloon she would come back and "smash it." Last Saturday the redoubtable Carrie made good. She entered the saloon with a hatchet and an apron full of bricks and smashed a $700 mirror and $50 worth of liquor—Petty Enterprise.

W. C. T. U. COLUMN.
Edited by MRS. H. A. BENEFIELD.
The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. John H. Bellot Thursday, Jan. 18th, at 3 p. m.

Extract from article in Sunday Advertiser, Austin, Texas, signed by R. J. Briggs, pastor First Congregational church, Austin:

"The Rev. E. Tennyson Smith of Birmingham, England, a genial cultured gentleman, and a fearless and eloquent advocate of civic righteousness, has been lecturing during the past week in our city, and if Austin is not quickened into a better conscience and lifted into a healthier temperance sentiment by his presence and his addresses, she is proof against the most convincing demonstrations and powerful appeals that have been made within her precincts, at least in recent years. Dr. Smith, unlike most temperance lecturers, does not try to demolish by labored argument the shallow sophisms and popular fallacies which have been urged in defense of the liquor traffic. He recognizes that the arguments pro and con are all in, and are the common property of the people, and what is now needed is action. His terrific arraignment of the liquor traffic, his pathetic and thrilling appeals to the heart and conscience made well high irresistible by the most intense and dramatic impersonations, all are directed to this end. Hence Dr. Smith demonstrates that he is thoroughly familiar with the signs of the times, and as a moral physician has diagnosed definitely the disease of modern society.

"Dr. Smith's manifest purpose is to awaken the moral sense and fire the imaginations of men with some just conception of the fearful ravages of this Juggernaut human life and society, as the countless holocausts of victims annually go down before it. I have not heard a man better fitted by nature, education, observation and art to achieve this end than he. His delineations are being reinforced by the consummate art of the great tragedian, and Sol Smith Russell could not change in aspect and character before an audience more rapidly, vividly and completely than he. He enters the gin mill, the polished, cultivated gentleman of means, of leisure, of moral ideas and personal integrity, and he comes out the miserable, shivering, shabby drunkard, with hair and beard bedraggled and dull, stony eyes staring into vacancy. The transformation is simply appalling, and the man who can witness it without feeling burning indignation mounting in his soul against the stuff that wrought it, is for all moral and humane purposes, either paralyzed or dead.

"Dr. Smith holds that the abolition of the liquor traffic is not a matter of expediency, but a matter of necessity, and that it must be done by the moral conscience of mankind backed by the word of God. This position is impregnable and puts this mighty consumption upon the conscience of the Church and the followers of Jesus Christ."

A Modern Miracle.

"Truly miraculous seemed the recovery of Mrs. Mollie Holt of this place," writes J. O. Hooper, Woodford, Tenn., "she was so wasted by coughing up puss from her lungs. Doctors declared her end so near that her family had watched by her bed-side forty-eight hours; when, at my urgent request Dr. King's New Discovery was given her, with the astonishing result that improvement began, and continued until she finally completely recovered, and is a healthy woman to day." Guaranteed cure for cough and colds, 50c and $1.00 at all druggists, Trial bottle free.

Using Brains on the Farm.

The most productive farms of the country are those of the north-west. This is not because the natural conditions are more favorable in that section than in others—the south, for instance—but because the northwestern farmer is a stickler for system in his business. He does nothing by guesswork. He keeps books and takes a strict accounting of expenses and income. He knows what it costs him to grow his crops and when he has marketed them he knows what his profit and loss has been. He knows the value of keeping up his machinery and his stock and of taking advantage of newest methods. He is a reader of newspapers and magazines and keeps abreast of the progress of the world. Year after year the farmers are mixing more and more brains with the brawn and guano they put on their fields, with most satisfactory results. —Savannah (Ga.) News.

THE MEDICAL USE OF ALCOHOLIC LIQUORS.

A constantly well-filled larder of the home product, is what the farmers should have, especially those things that can be raised here—for instance—farm products, such as Irish and sweet potatoes; meat, corn and wheat for bread; syrup, fruit, and by no means forget to raise plenty of poultry. There are many other things that could be mentioned, but an abundance of those that have been, with some cotton on the side, will keep the wolf from the door and sufficient shining shekels to keep you and your family supplied with all home comforts. Raise cotton as a surplus crop and put the amount you sell it for in the bank for the proverbial rainy day. —Exchange.

The editor who can please everyone is not fit for this earth, but is entitled to wings. Human nature is constituted so that some like scandal, some don't; some like to see others ripped up the back; others don't; some like to see folks exposed, others don't; some like the truth told about them; others don't. Some like to take their paper seven or eight years, and never miss an issue or pay a cent, and get mad and stop their paper when they get a statement of their accounts, others don't. It is some consolation to know that the Lord himself failed to please everyone while on earth. —Exchange.
